IMPORTANT: THIS IS A LEGAL DOCUMENT

Please read and understand this document before signing. If you have any questions please ask us or consult an attorney.

St. Lawrence University has done everything possible to assure that our guests experience a rewarding experience. We wish to inform our guests that Canoeing, Kayaking, and/or Rafting is not risk free. The same elements that contribute to the unique character and fun of Canoeing, Kayaking and/or Rafting such as the physical exertion or the RISK, can cause loss or damage to equipment, injury, illness, or in extreme cases, permanent trauma or death. We do not want to heighten or reduce your enthusiasm for the experience, but we do want you to know in advance what to expect and to be informed of some of the possible risks. We ask that you read this, sign it, and return it to our office.

ACKNOWLEDGMENT OF RISK

There may be rapids experienced on the trip. Boaters can be jolted, bounced, and otherwise shaken about during rides through these rapids. It is possible you could be injured if you hit equipment or other objects while upright or upside down. Equipment may break or malfunction causing loss of property or injury.

Boats may turn over or participants may swim causing prolonged exposure to cold water leading to hypothermia, injury, or death. Injuries can be sustained after you are in the water such as from objects floating in the river or in the riverbed. Drowning is always a possibility whenever you are around water.

Accidents can occur getting in or out of the boat, canoe, kayak or tube. You might injure yourself by falling against some object in or around the boat, or on the shore. You might trip over rocks, stumps or other debris on shore while trying to hold the boat or tie it to a suitable object on shore.

Boating requires physical exertion and effort. As a kayaker, canoeist, inflatable kayaker, you will be totally responsible for your own movement and safety while on the river. This requires physical exertion as well as emotional and mental stability. You will be primarily responsible for your own rescues. St. Lawrence University will not be available to assist you in a rescue due to the inherent nature of the sport.

While in a tube or after falling out of a canoe, kayak or raft you may hit submerged objects. Never stand up in moving water as you run the risk of a foot entrapment. Swim to the shore and crawl out of moving water. When you are in water less than knee deep walk carefully and be aware of rocks, branches or other objects.

"Strainers" are trees that have fallen into the river. The trunk of the tree will float forcing objects floating in the river to flow under the trunk. The branches of the tree then capture and hold objects flowing under allowing the water to flow through. People who are forced under a strainer will be trapped between the force of the water and against the branches drowning them.

Accidents can occur during off-river travel. Trails are often steep, rocky, and/or slippery. Hikes involve crossing streams, where footing can be awkward. Participants can slip or fall during a hike, resulting in injury. Poisonous or dangerous plants, insects, or animals can be found with harmful effects to some guests. Exposure to the natural elements can be uncomfortable or harmful. Heat-sunburn, dehydration, heat exhaustion, heat stroke, heat cramps, wind, rain, outdoor, using portable toilet facilities, eating meals out-of-doors, being in the open for the extended length of the trip can be uncomfortable or cause injury or illness.

It is also possible that some participants would suffer mental anguish or trauma from the experience or their injuries.

This list is not an exclusive or exhaustive list of possible injuries, trauma or accidents that may occur while Canoeing, Kayaking, and/or Rafting. Most of these injuries are rare and you are not likely to encounter them, however they have occurred and you need to know about them and other possible injuries not mentioned above. These injuries occur more often when the participants are using drugs or alcohol or not physically able to undertake the activity.
