Campus Map

Dean-Eaton Hall

This may be one of the more unusual residence halls you'll ever see. Its stucco exterior and central courtyard with ivy-covered walls reflect an English university style, we're told. Dean-Eaton was built in 1926 and today houses upper-class students. The building offers single, double, triple and quad room options, each with individual character. There's also an elegant study area and a smaller study lounge. St. Lawrence guarantees housing for all four years of study.

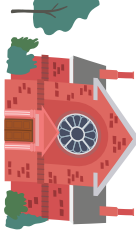

Dana Dining Hall

Dana Dining Hall is the main eatery on campus, serving food buffet-style. All dining options are welcomed: vegans and vegetarians find many choices, students who love international options have a feast, and traditionalists who aim for hearty dinners, pizza, or sandwiches are happy too. Visit our Dining Services site for sample menus!

Richardson Hall

Can you imagine living in the same building where your professors have their offices and you take classes, then moving down another floor to have dinner or visit the library? That's what it was like when we opened our one-building college campus in 1856 with Richardson Hall. Richardson is one of two campus buildings listed on the National Register of Historic Places. Today, it houses classrooms and office space for English and religious studies.

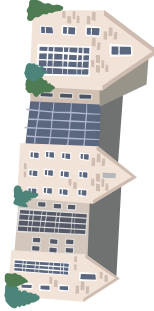

Herring-Cole Hall

A few years after we opened in 1856, we needed a stand-alone library, so we built Herring Hall in 1870. Later, in 1903, we added Cole Reading Room. One of two campus buildings listed on the National Register of Historic Places, Herring-Cole was lovingly restored in 2014 and is the site of seminars, archival exhibitions about University history, guest lectures, and receptions in which the entire campus community participates.

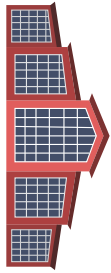

Johnson Hall of Science

The Johnson Hall of Science leads the way as a Gold LEED certified and environmentally friendly building. Johnson Hall houses space for biology, chemistry, neuroscience, biochemistry, and psychology. The building includes teaching labs, research labs, conference rooms, and study spaces. Here, you'll find students collaborating with their faculty mentors on exciting and important research that's typical of a graduate-level education. Lastly, you can also find the Johnson Grab & Go, another eatery on campus for students who would like a quick meal between their classes.

Kirk Douglas Hall

Built in 2016 and named after St. Lawrence alumnus and famous actor Kirk Douglas '39, Kirk Douglas Hall is a hotel-style residence hall heated and cooled through geothermal energy, cutting St. Lawrence's dependence on costly and polluting fossil fuels. Kirk Douglas Hall also houses Spartacus Café, one of the favorite eateries on campus.

Newell Field House

Newell Field House includes five indoor tennis courts and basketball courts for intramural or recreational play. The Field House also holds a track and field complex, and the infield surface can be used for team practice. Through the main entrance, you will see our recently expanded Stafford Fitness Center on your right and the Munro Family Climbing Wall on the left, as well as our Multipurpose Room and the Time Out Café, one of several satellite cafés on campus.

Experience St. Lawrence University

Owen D. Young Library

By the numbers: 15 million books (yes, we still love books), thousands of print and electronic journals, dozens of "tree house" study carrels, and 14 group study and seminar rooms are collected here, in one of the best college libraries according to the Princeton Review. It's home to our state-of-the-art Bloomberg Finance Lab and Digital Scholarship Studio. The University's WORD Studio (which offers assistance with writing, oral presentations, and research techniques) is also located in ODY. A member of the New York Six Liberal Arts Consortium, St. Lawrence offers its students access to more print and electronic sources that don't quite fit on our shelves.

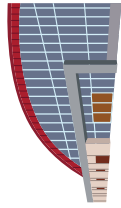

Gunnison Memorial Chapel

Is that Mahatma Gandhi in one of our stained glass windows? Absolutely. Gunnison Chapel's gorgeous stained glass windows feature historic and literary figures who represent the disciplines of the liberal arts. Touring these windows is a must-do before you graduate. Rest assured, you'll visit Gunnison often, since our community hosts many different kinds of religious services, musical performances, ceremonies like our annual Candlelight Service in December, guest lectures, and faith-based events. Every day at 5 p.m., you'll pause to listen to the Bacheller Memorial Chime, played by one of your fellow students. It's not uncommon for alumni to get choked up when they hear them ring.

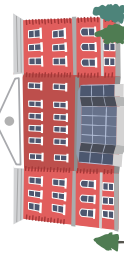

Sullivan Student Center

The Student Center is the central hub of our campus. It houses the Student Mail Center, Center for Career Excellence, Student Activities and Leadership, and Residence Life in a central location to collaboratively support the needs of all students. In addition, you can find two of our campus eateries—the Northstar Café and Jack's Corner. On the lowest level, the Winston Room hosts performances, student club and organization events, and campus movies.

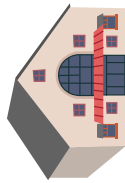

Appleton Arena

Appleton Arena is a 3,200-seat multi-purpose arena and is home to our men's and women's Division I ice hockey teams. The arena has seen a number of renovations in its history, most recently in the fall of 2024 with the addition of the George W. Karpus '68 Athletic Center. The rink's original bleachers and general ambience have remained an integral part of the look and feel of the building. In the Karpus Center, you'll find a brand-new strength and conditioning space for DIII student-athletes, as well as new locker rooms and team facilities for the field hockey and softball teams, and the men's and women's lacrosse and rowing teams.

Carnegie Hall

Home to the Parti McGill Peterson Center for International and Intercultural Studies (CIIS), which oversees over 30 programs in over 20 different countries. Over 50% of our students study off-campus by participating in one of our signature domestic or international programs. In the most recent Open Doors report, St. Lawrence was ranked No. 25 in the nation for study abroad opportunities. A St. Lawrence education encourages you to develop the critical intercultural skills you'll need to tackle global challenges with confidence and perspective.

Brewer Bookstore

The Brewer Bookstore is a one-stop shop for everything students need for classes: from textbooks to calculators, printing supplies and computer software. Rich in history, the Brewer Bookstore was once the University's athletic house where fans could cheer on the Saints. Fun fact: 28 loops around its second floor equals one mile. Now, you're more likely to break a sweat shopping 'til you drop (a very real possibility in this treasure trove of gifts and goods). Add a piece of St. Lawrence gear to your wardrobe and grab a hot beverage from the renovated café on your way out.
