

Dumas Seaway Photograph Collection
MSS. COLL. NO. 124
1 linear ft

Biographical

Eleanor Jane Lahey Dumas (1916-1997) was employed with the Massena Observer until her marriage and later became a Watertown Daily Times Massena correspondent in the early 1940s. Mrs. Dumas covered Northern New York and Southern Ontario until her retirement in 1976. Eleanor is most noted for covering high profile events in the North Country, such as Eleanor Roosevelt's visit to St. Lawrence University in 1955 and the construction of the Eisenhower Lock and Power Dam from 1954-1959. In 1970 Mrs. Dumas was awarded a certificate of merit by the United Press International for her coverage of the S.S. Eastcliff Hall Maritime Disaster in the St Lawrence River on July 14, 1970. In 1981 she was appointed to the position of town historian and curator of the Massena Museum and served in that position until 1987. Eleanor and her daughter Nina E. Dumas(also a Watertown Daily Times Correspondent) published a book entitled History of Massena: The Orphan Town in 1978.

Scope and Content

This collection consists of approximately 2,500 color slides (1 linear foot). Slides show construction of St. Lawrence Seaway, Robert Moses Power Dam, and associated activities.

Organization and Arrangement

The slides were in no particular order when they were received and have been placed in archival sleeves, each holding 20 slides.

Provenance

These slides were purchased from John Dumas, the son of Eleanor Dumas, in 1999 with funds from The Friends of Owen D. Young & Launders Libraries.

Added 7/2008

CD of 63 photos from this collection at 300 dpi and 600 dpi. Also included is a print out of the photos/slides, that are on the disk, printed on regular paper