HISTORICAL NOTE

Women Together: The Journal of North Country Women was a bi-monthly, then quarterly, then bi-annual, newsletter for women in northern New York produced by a group of women who referred to themselves as North Country Women or The North Country Women's Collective. North Country Women began meeting as a group in 1974 to discuss feminism and raise consciousness. The Women Together newsletter was born from these meetings and discussions as a tool to circulate ideas and increase consciousness.

In its statement of purpose, Women Together is described as "a publication of the women of the north country, which prints articles, literature, and artwork by and for our sisters. We are here to share information about North Country Women, our community, women's issues, here and throughout our country, state, nation, and world."

In addition to the newsletter, North Country Women was also involved with the founding of the North Country Women's Center in 1977, which transitioned into a Women's Shelter in 1979. The Women's Center and Shelter project are frequently featured in Women Together.

The newsletter experienced financial challenges throughout most of its existence, which was one of the primary causes for the publication to shift from bi-monthly to quarterly, and then bi-annually before ceasing production in 1981. Readership came from mainly Northern New York women, however, letters within the collection indicate readers from Pennsylvania and even as far away as California.

SCOPE AND CONTENT

This collection contains records of Women Together: The Journal of North Country Women. The collection includes copies of 13 completed newsletter issues dating from 1976 to 1981, however, there exist gaps among the newsletter volume and issue numbers, suggesting that there may be additional completed issues of Women Together that remain unattained. The collection also consists of typed and hand-written original source material for articles, newspaper clippings, original photographs, and mockups of 6 drafted newsletters. There is also hand-written correspondence from newsletter staff members, contributors and readers. In addition, the collection includes 2 notebooks containing records of business operations from 1979 and 1980 such as meeting notes, meeting attendance, newsletter subscribers, newsletter distributors and newsletter sales. There is also a group photograph of the North Country Women members, as well as photographs from the opening of the North Country Women's Shelter.

PROVENANCE

The collection was donated to St. Lawrence University Special Collections in 2013 by Valerie Summer, a member of North Country Women and principle organizer and contributor of Women Together. Additional issues of Women Together were donated by Arlyne Ruthschild in November 2013. Processing of the collection and preparation of this finding aid was done by Emma Berry ('14) as part of a St. Lawrence University Summer Fellowship in 2013. Faculty mentor, Judith DeGroat.
